DGVFM CPD Days

The German Society for Insurance and Financial Mathematics (DGVFM) has been organizing CPD Days for actuaries in Germany for several years now. These events aim to present complex, current research results to a broader actuarial audience. Since 2019, the presentations are also published as recorded sessions on actuvew.

Following the successful first virtual workshop in March, the latest CPD Day of the DGVFM also took place entirely online and revolved around the topic of InsurTechs. Moderated by An Chen (University of Ulm) and Stefan Weber (Leibniz University of Hanover), the program includes two top-class presentations in English language:
