

actuvew Newsletter | No. 5 | May 2023

Dear User,

The International Congress of Actuaries has started in Sydney, and we are proud to be a part of this special meeting of the global profession and to bring you the timely details. Look at our trip Down Under on LinkedIn and in our news section.

Speaking of timely, we have new partner webcasts on trending topics from RGA on potential efficiencies actuaries can gain by using ChatGPT and GitHub Copilot, and from Gen Re on how data and digitization change underwriting and product design. There's also an interesting new podcast series being launched by our actupool partner, ERGO, about actuarial careers.

And of course, we also have a wide range of new recordings and webinars from national associations such as the Caribbean Actuarial Association, the German scientific association DGVM, and the Society of Actuaries in Ireland.

We would also like to know what you think about the recently updated design and the content of our newsletter. Give us your feedback here.

New RGA webcast published on Large Language Models

Large Language Models have burst onto the scene with ChatGPT and GitHub Copilot tools. In this talk, we explore Large Language Models (LLMs), particularly OpenAI's GPT-3 model that both Copilot and ChatGPT are based upon, and more. Featuring Kyle Nobbe, Vice President and Actuary, Advanced Analytics, and Jeff Heaton, Vice President, Data Science. (Originally shared at the International Actuarial Society of Japan Conference in May.) Click here for the link.

Latest webcast from Gen Re on Data and Digitisation

Gen Re is one of the world's leading Life/Health and Property/Casualty reinsurers and a member of the Berkshire Hathaway family of companies. In this new video, Tim Eppert, Gen Re's head of L/H Products & Analytics team, discusses how underwriting is shaped by the desire to improve risk differentiation, allows an easy onboarding process, and uses continuous underwriting to change the relationship between insurer and policy holder.

Event Highlight

32nd Annual Conference of the Caribbean Actuarial Association

The latest Annual Caribbean Actuarial Association Conference took place in December 2022 in Barbados and brought together actuaries and professionals to experience the evolution of the actuary.

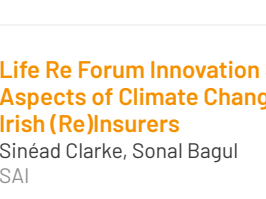

The role of the actuary is ever evolving. Actuaries have always played a pivotal role in industries such as life, health, and general insurance; reinsurance; pensions; social security; and investments. With changes in regulation, technology, modelling, science, and global trends, actuaries have had to pivot in their existing roles and embrace the emerging roles and new industries in which to practice. Dive into 19 recordings from the event, including these:
