Community News

Indonesian and Kenyan actuaries join the actuvew community

The Society of Actuaries in Indonesia (Persatuan Aktuaris Indonesia, PAI) is a new partner of actuvew and will give access to more than 500 members and students. We are very happy to welcome the Indonesian experts to our network and are looking forward to expanding our content and user base on the Asian continent. Their first event will come to actuvew shortly and bring new perspectives and topics into the global actuarial discussion. At the same time, the Actuarial Society of Kenya (TASK) has joined our network of global experts. Founded in 1993, and officially launched in 2005, TASK brings together qualified and trainee actuaries in professional, educational and research organizations with the aim of promoting the actuarial profession in Kenya, and regional markets. You can find both partners now with their own channel: PAI and TASK.

actupool on Instagram

Our partner platform actupool has just joined Instagram, adding another visual dimension to the informative content on LinkedIn. Follow them to get practical how-tos, behind-the-scenes information and much more. They're more than ready to interact with the actuarial community in a whole new way – are you ready too? #### New AAE Discussion Paper on social security pension systems

The Actuarial Association of Europe (AAE) has published a new paper entitled "Risk Mapping for Social Security Pension Systems". The aim of this paper is to address the critical gap in social security risk management, aiming to assist actuaries working in this field in establishing their risk management (RM) systems. In this paper, considering the similarities with other financial institutions, we highlight the differences between them and pension funds. Pension funds, entrusted with safeguarding the financial security of many individuals in their retirement years, are often perceived to be similar to insurance products or savings plans, despite their intricacies and crucial societal role. ### Event Highlight

IAA Summit on Artificial Intelligence

Artificial Intelligence (AI) is an important global topic that is receiving increased public attention. The IAA Council recently approved a Statement of Intent to launch initiatives aimed at establishing and promoting responsible use of AI within the actuarial profession. As an initial step, the IAA hosted an invitation-only Summit in Singapore on 4 and 5 April 2024, to bring together actuaries, and potentially regulators and AI professionals.

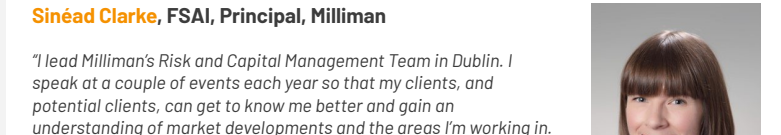

The key objective of the Summit was to facilitate sharing of knowledge and experience, to listen, learn, and discuss how the profession should prepare and respond to the challenges for the profession in five areas (Professionalism and Ethics; Education; Changing Role of Actuaries; Governance; and Innovation). As outcomes from the Summit, the IAA expects to identify and agree on the most relevant AI-related issues the IAA should address and develop recommended next steps.

actuvew users can now watch the presentations and panel discussions that kicked off this special event:

Speaker of the Month

Sinéad Clarke, FSAI, Principal, Milliman

"I lead Milliman's Risk and Capital Management Team in Dublin. I speak at a couple of events each year so that my clients, and potential clients, can get to know me better and gain an understanding of market developments and the areas I'm working in. I like to present on new and emerging risks and trends in risk and capital management – many of my recent presentations have been about climate related risks. actuvew gives my clients the opportunity to watch my presentations at a time that suits them."
